

Yanks Take 18th Isle In Philippines; Open Sea Lane

By JAMES HUTCHESON
Manila, March 3 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur disclosed today the fourth in a series of rapid-fire invasions—a landing on Lubang island, 35 miles southwest of Manila bay—giving his forces complete control of the shortest sea route through the heart of the Philippines to Manila.
The western end of a 300-mile passage, through which Manila can be supplied and Luzon transformed into a huge military base facing Asia, was opened by veteran 24th Division troops which seized Lubang Thursday.
Maj. Gen. Frederick A. Irving's Yanks overwhelmed "negligible resistance" on the 18-by-eight mile island at the western exit of Verde passage, the 18th Philippine Island MacArthur has invaded.
Have All Key Positions
"This completes the capture of all key positions through San Bernardino straits and Verde island passage designed to secure the main navigational channel through the islands for shipping from the United States," today's communique reported.
In fighting on Luzon east of Manila, where Japanese forces are in slow retreat into mountains of the Marikina watershed, Maj. Gen. Verne D. Mudge's First Cavalry Division and Maj. Gen. Edwin D. Patrick's Sixth Division are attacking strong enemy defensive positions. Supporting air units dropped 120 tons of explosives on one strong-point.
Far to the north in Nueva Ecija province, Yanks infiltrating into the Caraballo mountains are enveloping and unhinging enemy positions covering the Balete pass area.

Marines On Iwo Pushing Japs To Cliff

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Guam, March 3 (AP)—Only 600 yards of terrain stood today between the Third U. S. Marines and the point at which they may cut the last interconnecting Japanese pillbox line, along blood-soaked Iwo Island's northern end.
But it was a rugged stretch, by anybody's definition. It sloped irregularly downward to a cliff which probably will serve as the last stand of the Japanese.
Between the Marine outpost and the cliff runs a system of half-underground enemy defense works which, like others the Marines have taken in the last ten days, must be faced the hard way. And the Japanese are beginning to show signs of desperation.
Between Marines and Sea
The Third Division Leathernecks, under Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine, lunged forward 700 yards Friday to seize a 362-foot hill in the northern part of the island, within rifle range of the cliff, and in position to cut the boomerang-shaped Japanese line in two, approximately at the bend.
The American advance formed a salient pointing toward the inside of the bend. The cliff, running along the northeastern shore about 500 yards in from the water line, is one outside edge of the the boomerang.

Lt. Col. Frank E. Sharpless, commandant of the reserve unit and head of the Reserve Officers Training Corps program at the college, presided at the graduation and presented the young men with their certificates. In addition to his short talk, remarks were made also by Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, college president. The invocation was given by Prof. G. Saylor Warthen. The entire unit and members of the college faculty attended a farewell dinner Thursday night at Huber hall. Capt. Frank A. Conway, a member of the military staff at the college, acted as toastmaster. Doctor Hanson made the opening remarks and Colonel Sharpless also spoke. Dr. Richard A. Arms, coordinator of the military and civilian programs at the college, was unable to be present, and a letter from him was read to the group.

Following the dinner the reserve students presented a program of stunts, skits, poems and songs. A portion of the program was given over to "lampooning" the faculty and the features of the training which the students did not like.

Unauthorized Job Changes May Mean Immediate Induction

Draft age men who are contemplating changing jobs should consult their local draft boards first for a determination of the importance of the prospective position, draft board officials warned today.

Men who make changes without consulting their Selective Service board will be liable for induction into the armed forces, it was asserted. Men leaving critical war industries or other essential war jobs in which they have been serving may find themselves faced with prompt induction into the armed forces if they change jobs without a preliminary approval from Selective Service authorities.

These regulations apply to all men of draft age—from 18 to 38—and to all occupations, farmers included.

CANNING FIRMS HOST TO CHERRY GROWERS FRIDAY

More than 200 persons, the largest crowd in its 11 years' history, attended the joint cherry-growers dinner given by the C. H. Musselman company and the Orrianna Canning company Friday evening at the Musselman company cafeteria at Biglerville.

Included in the group were orchardmen, their wives, children, company officials and guests. Cyrus G. Bucher, of Biglerville, was toastmaster. The dinner opened with a prayer by the Rev. A. W. Geigley, Fairfield.

Two growers received $50 war bonds as prizes for producing the highest percentage of U. S. number one grade cherries for the two canneries. John Hauser, president of the Musselman company, presented a bond to the Wilson brothers orchards operated by John and William Wilson, of Biglerville R. D., for the production of more than five tons of 98.5 per cent of number one cherries. The other award of a $50 bond was made by Howard Musselman, head of the Orrianna canning company, to Clyde Andrews, of near Orrianna, for delivering more than five tons of cherries with a grade of 93.4 per cent number ones.

Specialists Speak

The program opened with welcoming remarks by Mr. Hauser. A feature of the evening was the presentation of several numbers by a quartet of Arendtsville men with an average age of 70 years. They were George Boyer, Edward Rice, Reynolds Crisswell and A. D. Sheely. They sang three groups of selections, both accompanied and unaccompanied.

Talks were given by John Ruef, of State College, secretary of the State Horticulture association, and R. S. Kirby and John O. Pepper, extension specialists from Pennsylvania State college.

In his talk on "Orchard Management Practices," Mr. Ruef told the growers that they must continue to maintain their high production levels. That is necessary not only for the present because of the war needs for the fruit, he said, but will be necessary also after the war in case of a price drop.

Should the price of cherries fall, he said, good orchard management (Please Turn to Page 5)

RED CROSS WAR FUNDS NEARING $3,000 MARK

Several new large donations to the Adams County 1945 American Red Cross War Fund were reported today as the campaign for the county goal of $28,000 entered its third day.

Heading the list was a check for $300 received from Mrs. Donald P. McPherson by Mrs. Elsie Singmaster Lewars, chairman of the county chapter.

The second large donation received today was $100 from H. G. Baugher, Bendersville, owner of the Adams County Nursery and Fruit farm. Other checks to the War Fund were one of $30 from the Warner Brothers motion picture company, operators of the Majestic and Strand theaters in Gettysburg, and a $20 check from Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Quigley, of Bendersville.

The new donations, including a number of smaller membership donations from numerous residents in Gettysburg and the county brought the total received to near the $3,000 mark. Several solicitors have turned in either full or partial reports of their districts, and a concentrated effort toward the thorough canvassing of all areas was being planned for the week-end.

To List Donors

Mrs. Lewars said today that the Red Cross will furnish to the Gettysburg Times the names of all organizations who contribute to the War Fund campaign fund and the names of all individuals giving $5 or more.

"We are very grateful for the splendid cooperation The Times has given the Red Cross in this and other fund-raising efforts," Mrs. Lewars said today. "We appreciate the fact that limitations on newsprint, and the limited space available in news columns today will not permit the listing of names of all donors this year. While the Red Cross will have a complete and accurate record of gifts made by all contributors only organizations' gifts and those of $5 or more from individuals will be submitted for publication."

The discussions at the meeting centered chiefly around the price differentials between areas. These differentials, OPA pointed out, reflected differences in base prices and in cost increases for raw materials. Data on which the price structure was based in these cases have been examined, but no price increase is contemplated at this time, OPA said.

Nazis Flee Across River As Allies Try To Close Trap

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
(Associated Press War Editor)

Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's battered divisions were in headlong flight across the Rhine in the north today as American troops, 250,000 strong, hammered to the river's west bank at new points and knifed to within less than five miles of a juncture with Canadians.

Joining of the American and Canadian forces might trap thousands of Nazi soldiers.

Unofficial reports to London said U. S. Ninth Army patrols had crossed the Rhine at captured Neuss, Duesseldorf suburb, and the German radio said the Americans were launching crossing attempts, but there was no official word.

Planes Lash at Nazis

The Ninth smashed to the river at two new points in the 15-mile advance which toppled all the arsenal cities of the Ruhr west of the Rhine, routing and splitting the Nazis in the Rhineland. To the north the Ninth's 35th Division reached Geldern, five miles from the Canadian vanguards, and between the jaws of this pincers, the Germans said, the British Second Army has driven across the Maas river in a new offensive.

U. S. tanks and infantry spread out before Cologne on a 20-mile front, within easy artillery range, but resistance in the area still was obstinate.

Allied divebombers lashed German troops fleeing to the Rhine and hundreds of heavies roared over the Reich in the ceaseless aerial offensive.

BULLETINS

London, March 3 (AP)—Soviet tanks east of the Pomeranian city of Koelsin have cut communications between Danzig and Stettin, the German radio said today.

United States Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Guam, March 3 (AP)—Without enemy air opposition, carrier aircraft of the U. S. Pacific fleet attacked the Ryukyu Islands, southwest of Japan March 1, striking at military, naval and air installations and shipping.
Forty-one enemy aircraft were destroyed, 50 more were destroyed or damaged.
A destroyer, six small cargo ships, 2 medium cargo ships, and four other small vessels were sunk. Probably sunk were one medium cargo ship, six small coastal cargo ships and six luggers.

Two Treated For Minor Injuries
Harry Luckenbaugh, 605 Baltimore street, was treated at the Warner hospital Friday evening for a laceration on his left leg received while dismounting a corn picker.
Fred Myers, 322 West Middle street, received treatment at the hospital Friday evening for a laceration of his right hand received when he fell on glass.
Ceel Gause, Biglerville, was operated upon this morning for the removal of his tonsils.

Mr. Russell Spangler, Aspers R. 1; Mrs. Chetwood Ray, Fairfield R. 1; and Martin L. Debliss, Keyman, Md., have been admitted as patients. Those discharged were Paul Anzengruber, York street; Mrs. Thurman Wright and infant son, Gary Lynn, Biglerville, and Gail Bellamy, Fairfield.

Sons Of Vets Plan Appomattox Event

A committee to arrange for an Appomattox Day dinner meeting of the Sons of Union Veterans Friday night at the post home, East Middle street, George P. Black was named chairman of the group with these other members: Arthur W. Warman T. Winebrenner, Henry T. Biddle and George N. Coshun. The next meeting will be held April 6. Commander Harry Cook presided.

C. E. SOCIETY MEETING

The monthly meeting of the Marsh Creek Church of the Brethren Christian Endeavor society will be held at the church Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The topic will be "Youth Serving Christ and Country." Howard Knouse will be the speaker. Mrs. Charles Lott will sing several selections. The public is invited to attend.

Berlin was battered again during the night by Mosquito blockbusters, for the 11th successive night. Kasel, 110 miles east of Cologne, also was hit. RAF Liberators and Halifaxes from Italy, joining the assault during the night, blasted German communications in Italy and Austria, and during yesterday 1,200 U. S. heavies with 700 fighters smashed at oil and rail targets in southeast Germany.

Reds Advancing

Red Army cavalry and tanks reached positions overlooking the Baltic sea today in numerous sectors of the 250-mile salient from the Koensigsberg area to Koelsin, midway between Danzig and Stettin.
A Moscow dispatch said the Russians were so successful in their drive to isolate major cities and ports in the area from one another that the Germans have been unable to use the main coastal railway for three days. Ultimate aim of the drive is to shear off eastern Pomerania, Danzig and the Polish corridor.

The Germans hurled 60 counterattacks against the southwest front at Koensigsberg, besieged East Prussian capital, Moscow said, but the Russians gained a mile in the area.

Four Cities In Two Days

In Italy fierce fighting, costly to both sides, raged along the east bank of the Senio river in the Eighth Army sector. German artillery, meanwhile, opened a new assault on the Monte Belvedere area held by the Americans west of the Pistono-Bologna highway.

In two days of battle in the west Hitler has lost or has been deprived of the use of four of his chief Rhineland industrial cities, a blow perhaps as disastrous as the loss of two whole armies in the field. Muenchen Gladbach fell Thursday, Krefeld and Neuss yesterday, and Duesseldorf was neutralized. In addition the part of Cologne west of the Rhine was under constant air and artillery bombardment.

Two bridges span the Rhine at Duesseldorf—a highway bridge and a double track rail structure. A savage battle raged for their possession. Near the northern outskirts of Krefeld, enemy tanks fought to hold open the main Rhine bridge on the superhighway nearby, main escape route for elements of ten crack enemy divisions which have fled before the Canadians. Large numbers of the enemy already have been trapped in the Venlo-Roermond area when those cities were captured by the lightning blows of the Ninth Army.

Gen. Eisenhower toured the front yesterday, came close to being caught in an abortive Nazi counter-attack and reached a division command post soon after it had been strafed. He disclosed that the Ninth Army had taken 17,500 prisoners thus far.
Third Army troops were rounding up hundreds of prisoners in the area of captured Trier in the Moselle valley.

John Hauser, president of the Musselman company, presented a bond to the Wilson brothers orchards operated by John and William Wilson, of Biglerville R. D., for the production of more than five tons of 98.5 per cent of number one cherries. The other award of a $50 bond was made by Howard Musselman, head of the Ortanna Canning company, to Clyde Andrews, of near Ortanna, for delivering more than five tons of cherries with a grade of 93.4 per cent number ones.

Specialists Speak
The program opened with welcoming remarks by Mr. Hauser. A feature of the evening was the presentation of several numbers by a quartet of Arendtsville men with an average age of 70 years. They were George Boyer, Edward Rice, Reynolds Criswell and A. D. Sheely. They sang three groups of selections, both accompanied and unaccompanied.

Talks were given by John Ruef, of State College, secretary of the State Horticulture association, and R. S. Kirby and John O. Pepper, extension specialists from Pennsylvania State college.

In his talk on "Orchard Management Practices," Mr. Ruef told the growers that they must continue to maintain their high production levels. That is necessary not only for the present because of the war needs for the fruit, he said, but will be necessary also after the war in case of a price drop.

Urges Efficient Handling

RED CROSS WAR FUNDS NEARING $3,000 MARK

Several new large donations to the Adams County 1945 American Red Cross War Fund were reported today as the campaign for the county goal of $28,000 entered its third day.

Heading the list was a check for $300 received from Mrs. Donald P. McPherson by Mrs. Elsie Singmaster Lewars, chairman of the county chapter.

The second large donation received today was $100 from H. G. Baugher, Bendersville, owner of the Adams County Nursery and Fruit farm. Other checks to the War Fund were one of $30 from the Warner Brothers motion picture company, operators of the Majestic and Strand theaters in Gettysburg, and a $20 check from Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Quigley, of Bendersville.

The new donations, including a number of smaller membership donations from numerous residents in Gettysburg and the county brought the total received to near the $3,000 mark. Several solicitors have turned in either full or partial reports of their districts, and a concentrated effort toward the thorough canvassing of all areas was being planned for the week-end.

To List Donors
Mrs. Lewars said today that the Red Cross will furnish to the Gettysburg Times the names of all organizations who contribute to the War Fund campaign fund and the names of all individuals giving $5 or more.

"We are very grateful for the splendid cooperation The Times has given the Red Cross in this and other fund-raising efforts," Mrs. Lewars said today. "We appreciate the fact that limitations on newspaper and the limited space available in news columns today will not permit the listing of names of all donors this year. While the Red Cross will have a complete and accurate record of gifts made by all contributors only organizations' gifts and those of $5 or more from individuals will be submitted for publication."

These differentials, OPA pointed out, reflected differences in base prices and in cost increases for raw materials. Data on which the price structure was based in these cases have been examined, but no price increase is contemplated at this time, OPA said.

Nazis Flee Across River As Allies Try To Close Trap

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
(Associated Press War Editor)

Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's battered divisions were in headlong flight across the Rhine in the north today as American troops, 250,000 strong, hammered to the river's west bank at new points and knifed to within less than five miles of a juncture with Canadians.

Joining of the American and Canadian forces might trap thousands of Nazi soldiers.

Unofficial reports to London said U. S. Ninth Army patrols had crossed the Rhine at captured Neuss, Duesseldorf suburb, and the German radio said the Americans were launching crossing attempts, but there was no official word.

Planes Lash at Nazis
The Ninth smashed to the river at two new points in the 15-mile advance which toppled all the arsenal cities of the Ruhr west of the Rhine, routing and splitting the Nazis in the Rhineland. To the north the Ninth's 35th Division reached Geldern, five miles from the Canadian vanguards, and between the jaws of this pincers, the Germans said, the British Second Army has driven across the Maas river in a new offensive.

U. S. tanks and infantry spread out before Cologne on a 20-mile front, within easy artillery range, but resistance in the area still was obstinate.

Allied divebombers lashed German troops fleeing to the Rhine and hundreds of heavies roared over the Reich in the ceaseless aerial offensive.

Berlin was battered again during the night by Mosquito blockbusters, for the 11th successive night. Kassel, 110 miles east of Cologne, was hit. RAF Liberators and Halifaxes from Italy, joining the assault during the night, blasted German communications in Italy and Austria, and during yesterday 1,200 U. S. heavies with 700 fighters smashed at oil and rail targets in southeast Germany.

BULLETINS
London, March 3 (AP)—Soviet tanks east of the Pomeranian city of Koeln have cut communications between Danzig and Stettin, the German radio said today.

United States Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Guam, March 3 (AP)—Without enemy air opposition, carrier aircraft of the U. S. Pacific fleet attacked the Ryuku Islands, southwest of Japan March 1, striking at military, naval and air installations and shipping.

Forty-one enemy aircraft were destroyed, 50 more were destroyed or damaged.

A destroyer, six small cargo ships, two medium cargo ships, and four other small vessels were sunk. Probably sunk were one medium cargo ship, six small coastal cargo ships and six luggers.

HEMISPHERIC ACCORD GROWS AT MEXICO CITY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (Associated Press War Analyst)

The avidity with which the inter-American conference at Mexico City is seeking to establish solidarity for the western hemisphere in the interests of peace is a bright rainbow for the United Nations which will meet to create a global security organization in San Francisco in April.

The "Act of Chapultepec" would provide for the use of joint force to stifle aggression within the hemisphere, echoes the spirit of the Guinean conference of the Big Three who pledged themselves to peace at all costs. There are many in this hemisphere who hope that the Americans may even bind themselves to stand as a bloc against any aggression from outside.

Undoubtedly the inter-American conference is wise to proceed without haste, in order not to undertake any commitment which might raise difficulties for the San Francisco meeting. However, observers generally see no reason why the world security organization shouldn't accommodate itself to a western hemisphere peace bloc. Indeed, it seems to fit Prime Minister Churchill's idea for regional units within the peace plan.

Less Suspicion

As a matter of fact, if this terrible war has taught the Americas anything, it is that from now on they must stand together for all and all for one. This doesn't mean isolation or non-cooperation with the rest of the world. It means that if another Hitler or Tojo ever raises his head, we shall be on the alert to halt any schemes he may have for aggression. It means we recognize that if a would-be aggressor obtains a foothold in a single western hemisphere country, he has a base from which he can strike at the rest.

One of the happiest aspects of the Mexico City conference, from the viewpoint of a Yankee, is that the "Act of Chapultepec" originates among our good neighbors and not in the United States. This means, as I see it, that there probably is a lot less suspicion of Uncle Sam's motives than there has been in some quarters heretofore. Maybe his attitude in this war has made it clear that he really has no designs against anybody, but is honestly interested in the welfare of his fellows.

However that may be, it must be admitted that when nations enter such a pact they want to know a lot about their partners. One assumes that under a western hemisphere pact the United States might be asked to make smaller nations to deal with any infraction of the pact where force was necessary. If that assumption is correct, then the "Act of Chapultepec" is doubly a vote of confidence in Uncle Sam.

March Tire Quota Shows Little Change

Little change in this ten-county district's passenger car tire quota for March was announced today by the Harrisburg District OPA office.

A total of 12,074 tires have been allocated for rationing by the 24 War Price and Rationing Boards in this area. This represents an increase of 371 over February when the quota was 11,703, only a drop in a bucket when it is considered that this number must be split up among the boards.

The month's allotment of truck and bus tires, size 8.25 and larger is one more than last month—a total of 810, while the quota of truck tires 7.50 and smaller is cut from 1,463 to 1,147. Tractor-implement tire quotas are also below last month, the allotment of tires size 7.50 and smaller being 200 as against 268 in February with the number of larger tires cut from 127 to 114.

TO CHALLENGE STEWART CASE

Harrisburg, March 3 (AP)—The Justice department yesterday decided to challenge in Federal district court a U. S. Civil Service Commission ruling the Health Secretary Dr. A. H. Stewart violated the Hatch anti-politics act.

Deputy Attorney General William M. Rutter said an appeal will be filed March 14, four days before the commission order becomes final. The contest must be lodged in the Western Pennsylvania court, home district of Dr. Stewart.

The Civil Service Commission in a 2-1 decision held that the Health Secretary and two subordinates violated the Hatch Act by "coercing" health department employees to contribute to the 1942 Republican campaign chest. The act bars use of official authority in political activity on the part of officials paid in whole or in part by Federal funds.

The agency asked the commission to remove Dr. Stewart, former director Tom E. Williams of the health department bureau of vital statistics, and Mrs. Sarah V. Robertson, former health employee now with the state revenue department.

Leaves From Diary Of War Correspondent

By HAL BOYLE

In Germany, (AP)—"No enemy activity reported," the patrols said, no Company F was ordered to take "Hotbox Hill." They did it too; in a nightmarish mile and a half advance at night through pillboxes, minefields, booby traps and heavy sleet and rain.

In the darkness the men picked their way past a 200-yard belt of concrete dragon's teeth and down a ravine studded with booby traps. Climbing up the other side one man stepped on a "stick mine."

No man likes to ask another to go ahead of him through an uncharted mine field. Capt. Alfred E. Koenig, New Brunswick, N. J., lined up his company single file and led the way through the enemy defenses. Not another man was hurt.

Sure that the Americans would not attack in such weather across their deadly mines, the Germans slept inside their bunkers.

At dawn Capt. Koenig and his men surrounded six strong pillboxes. Company F attacked with rifles; automatic weapons, hand grenades and rifle grenades.

The surprised Nazi garrison quailed under this unexpected firepower. When the Yanks crawled up to the reinforced steel pillboxes and began pitching grenades through the embrasures the defenders gave up one after another.

The six pillboxes yielded 115 prisoners and eight dead Germans. Company F had taken "Hotbox Hill" at the price of one casualty—the soldier who had stepped on the "stick mine."

No one in his battalion will ever forget the fortitude of one wounded First Infantry Division private from Missouri who lay unmolested for four days and a half in the snow.

The soldier was wading forward through knee-deep drifts in a dawn attack through a wooded area with his squad. They were caught in an artillery and mortar barrage so heavy they had to withdraw. A burp gun bullet hit the private in his left thigh and right hip.

Unable to walk, he burrowed into the snow to hide, but he was so weak from loss of blood that he fainted.

In Snow 110 Hours

For the next 110 hours he lay alone with nothing but his overcoat to keep him warm. All he had to eat was three ration chocolate bars.

A soldier less hardy would have perished, but not this Missouri boy. He ate his chocolate bars sparingly. He melted snow in his mouth. To keep from freezing and to maintain his circulation he flexed his muscles whenever his strength permitted.

One night it snowed, covering the soldier and making it all but impossible for his own medics to find him.

Finally two men from another company came close enough to hear his calls for help. They were pinned down themselves and unable to reach him. But when they got back to their own outfit they reported his location.

On the fifth day his own battalion attacked again and pushed back the Germans. Medics found the wounded man weak, but conscious. His morale was still high although he was suffering from frostbite as well as his wounds.

"He had spent five nights and four days alone in the nearest place on earth to hell," said one of his buddies.

Seventh War Loan Drive Opens May 14; Seek $14,000,000,000

Washington, March 3 (AP)—The treasury is going after more money from individuals than ever before in the Seventh War Loan drive and the sales period will be the longest yet.

From May 14 to June 30 individuals are asked to purchase $7,000,000,000.

The highest this total ever has been was $3,000,000,000 and the largest E bond sales in any drive were $3,187,000,000. Series E is the ordinary war bond which most people buy. The lowest denomination is a $25 bond which sells for $18.75. The total quota of $14,000,000,000 is the same as that of the Sixth War Loan.

See Opposition To School Health Bill

Harrisburg, March 3 (AP)—Continued opposition to the Wagner-Barton school health bill is forecast by House Democratic floor leader Hiram G. Andrews until it is amended to establish unit costs, maximum fees, maximum amounts to be paid for equipment and fixing of a definite time to become operative at least in part.

Sponsored by Reps. Kenneth H. Wagner (R-Somerset) and R. M. Barton (R-Perry) to carry out Governor Martin's recommendation for complete physical tests for school children, the measure is in position for final House action next week.

Andrews, in a statement released yesterday by Democratic state committee headquarters, asserted opponents "point out that while the measure has a 'pretty name,' it doesn't actually get anything done."

HEMISPHERIC ACCORD GROWS AT MEXICO CITY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (Associated Press War Analyst)

The avidity with which the inter-American conference at Mexico City is seeking to establish solidarity for the western hemisphere in the interests of peace is a bright rainbow for the United Nations which will meet to create a global security organization in San Francisco in April.

The "Act of Chapultepec" would provide for the use of joint force to stifle aggression within the hemisphere, echoes the spirit of the Crimean conference of the Big Three who pledged themselves to peace at all costs. There are many in this hemisphere who hope that the Americas may even bind themselves to stand as a bloc against any aggression from outside.

Undoubtedly the inter-American conference is wise to proceed without haste, in order not to undertake any commitment which might raise difficulties for the San Francisco meeting. However, observers generally see no reason why the world security organization shouldn't accommodate itself to a western hemisphere peace bloc. Indeed, it seems to fit Prime Minister Churchill's idea for regional units within the peace plan.

Less Suspicion As a matter of fact, if this terrible war has taught the Americas anything, it is that from now on they must stand together—one for all and all for one. This doesn't mean isolation or non-cooperation with the rest of the world. It means that if another Hitler or Tojo ever raises his head, we shall be on the alert to halt any schemes he may have for aggression. It means we recognize that if a would-be aggressor obtains a foothold in a single western hemisphere country, he has a base from which he can strike at the rest.

One of the happiest aspects of the Mexico City conference, from the viewpoint of a Yankee, is that the "Act of Chapultepec" originates among our good neighbors and not in the United States. This means, as I see it, that there probably is a lot less suspicion of Uncle Sam's motives than there has been in some quarters heretofore. Maybe his attitude in this war has made it clear that he really has no designs against anybody, but is honestly interested in the welfare of his fellows.

However that may be, it must be admitted that when nations enter such a pact they want to know a lot about their partners. One assumes that under a western hemisphere pact the United States might be asked by smaller nations to deal with any infraction of the pact where force was necessary. If that assumption is correct, then the "Act of Chapultepec" is doubly a vote of confidence in Uncle Sam.

March Tire Quota Shows Little Change

Little change in this ten-county district's passenger car tire quota for March was announced today by the Harrisburg District OPA office.

A total of 12,074 tires have been allocated for rationing by the 24 War Price and Rationing Boards in this area. This represents an increase of 371 over February when the quota was 11,703, only a drop in a bucket when it is considered that this number must be split up among the boards.

The month's allotment of truck and bus tires, size 8.25 and larger is one more than last month—a total of 810, while the quota of truck tires 7.50 and smaller is cut from 1,463 to 1,147. Tractor-implement tire quotas are also below last month, the allotment of tires size 7.50 and smaller being 200 as against 268 in February with the number of larger tires cut from 127 to 114.

TO CHALLENGE STEWART CASE

Harrisburg, March 3 (AP)—The Justice department yesterday decided to challenge in Federal district court a U. S. Civil Service Commission ruling the Health Secretary Dr. A. H. Stewart violated the Hatch anti-politics act.

Deputy Attorney General William M. Rutter said an appeal will be filed March 14, four days before the commission order becomes final. The contest must be lodged in the Western Pennsylvania court, home district of Dr. Stewart.

The Civil Service Commission in a 2-1 decision held that the Health Secretary and two subordinates violated the Hatch Act by "coercing" health department employees to contribute to the 1942 Republican campaign chest. The act bars use of official authority in political activity on the part of officials paid in whole or in part by Federal funds.

The agency asked the commonwealth to remove Dr. Stewart, former director Tom E. Williams of the health department bureau of vital statistics, and Mrs. Sarah V. Robertson, former health employee now with the state revenue department.

Leaves From Diary Of War Correspondent

By HAL BOYLE

In Germany, (AP)—"No enemy activity reported," the patrols said, so Company F was ordered to take "Hotbox Hill." They did it too, in a nightmare mile and a half advance at night through pillboxes, minefields, booby traps and heavy sleet and rain.

In the darkness the men picked their way past a 200-yard belt of concrete dragon's teeth and down a ravine studded with booby traps. Climbing up the other side one man stepped on a "stick mine."

No man likes to ask another to go ahead of him through an uncharted mine field. Capt. Alfred E. Koenig, New Brunswick, N. J., lined up his company single file—and led the way through the enemy defenses. Not another man was hurt.

Sure that the Americans would not attack in such weather across their deadly mines, the Germans slept inside their bunkers.

At dawn Capt. Koenig and his men surrounded six strong pillboxes. Company F attacked with rifles, automatic weapons, hand grenades and rifle grenades.

Garrison Surrenders The surprised Nazi garrison quailed under this unexpected firepower. When the Yanks crawled up to the reinforced steel pillboxes and began pitching grenades through the embrasures the defenders gave up one after another.

The six pillboxes yielded 115 prisoners and eight dead Germans. Company F had taken "Hotbox Hill" at the price of one casualty—the soldier who had stepped on the "stick mine."

No one in his battalion will ever forget the fortitude of one wounded First Infantry Division private from Missouri who lay unmolested for four days and a half in the snow.

The soldier was wading forward through knee-deep drifts in a dawn attack through a wooded area with his squad. They were caught in an artillery and mortar barrage so heavy they had to withdraw. A burp gun bullet hit the private in his left thigh and right hip.

Unable to walk, he burrowed into the snow to hide, but he was so weak from loss of blood that he fainted.

In Snow 110 Hours For the next 110 hours he lay alone with nothing but his overcoat to keep him warm. All he had to eat was three ration chocolate bars.

A soldier less hardy would have perished, but not this Missouri boy. He ate his chocolate bars sparingly. He melted snow in his mouth. To keep from freezing and to maintain his circulation he flexed his muscles whenever his strength permitted.

One night it snowed, covering the soldier and making it all but impossible for his own medics to find him.

Finally two men from another company came close enough to hear his calls for help. They were pinned down themselves and unable to reach him. But when they got back to their own outfit they reported his location.

On the fifth day his own battalion attacked again and pushed back the Germans. Medics found the wounded man weak, but conscious. His morale was still high although he was suffering from frostbite as well as his wounds.

"He had spent five nights and four days alone in the nearest place on earth to hell," said one of his buddies.

Seventh War Loan Drive Opens May 14; Seek $14,000,000,000

Washington, March 3 (AP)—The treasury is going after more money from individuals than ever before in the Seventh War Loan Drive. And the sales period will be the longest yet.

From May 14 to June 30 individuals are asked to purchase $7,000,000,000.

In the last drive the individual quota was $5,000,000,000. The highest previous individual quota was $6,000,000,000 and the greatest sales $6,351,000,000.

The new series E quota of $4,000,000,000 is likewise the highest established in any drive for that security. The highest this total ever has been was $3,000,000,000 and the largest E bond sales in any drive were $3,187,000,000. Series E is the ordinary war bond which most people buy. The lowest denomination is a $25 bond which sells for $18.75.

The total quota of $14,000,000,000 is the same as that of the Sixth War Loan.

Two Countians File Discharges

Two honorable discharges, one from the United States Navy and the other from the United States Marines, were filed today at the office of Register and Recorder Winfield G. Horner.

The Navy discharge was for Jesse Nicholas Sanders, who served as a fireman first class. He was released from the service February 24 at the United States Naval hospital at Portsmouth, Va. He enlisted as an apprentice seaman at Harrisburg January 4, 1944, and served at the Great Lakes Naval Training station, a Philadelphia station, and also was stationed at a Navy base hospital and Navy fleet hospital before being discharged.

The discharged Marine is Willard Clifford Weikert, a veteran of the battle for New Georgia island in the British Solomon Islands in the South Pacific. Weikert served as a corporal and was released for medical reasons.

Weikert enlisted January 2, 1942, at Philadelphia, and was discharged February 22. He served in the south-west Pacific from January 28, 1943, to October 7, 1944, and was in the British Solomons from September 8, 1943, to February 13, 1944. He was promoted to a private first class September 30, 1942, and to corporal June 16, 1943.

TROJANS SNARE TITLE; PLAY HERE TUESDAY

Chambersburg high gained its second straight Southern Pennsylvania interscholastic basketball league championship Friday evening when it defeated Hershey high, Northern Division champs, 44-35, in a game played on the Dickinson college floor at Carlisle.

The Trojans will now meet West York high, York county Class A representative, in a District 3 PIAA elimination game on the Gettysburg college court Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. On the same evening Steelton, Central Penn league champ, meets Columbia, Lancaster county winner, at Lebanon. The winners of the two games meet for the District 3 title next Friday night at Hershey or Carlisle.

Coach Beard's Trojans led throughout Friday's tilt. At half time the score was 19-14. Late in the third period Hershey pared the lead to 26-24 and again in the last period trailed by a 28-26 count but five straight points by Joe Howard, former Gettysburg resident, put the Franklin countians well ahead in the closing minutes.

New York, March 3 (AP)—It is with justifiable pride that T-5 Al G. Smith sends the following report from Teheran on sports in the Army's Persian Gulf command—a territory of "extremely rugged terrain and of temperatures ranging from below zero in the mountains to 150 degrees in summer in the desert."

Smith writes: "Our all-star football team's recent 9-0 victory over the United States Armed Forces in the Middle East all-stars at Cairo has given us a clean sweep in inter-command competition in this part of the world. We're champions of the Middle East in football, basketball, boxing and table tennis now. During the past year our boxing team decisively won the team title and most of the individual titles from the USAFME at Cairo; two PGC basketball teams tied for first place in a round robin basketball tournament at Cairo and our table tennis team decisively whipped the boys from USAFME at Teheran."

P. S.: Our football team is right proud of a radiogram that arrived yesterday from the commanding general of USAFME, congratulating the command on the team's fine spirit and clean sportsmanship in the all star game February 11th."

Two "Scandinavian Scooters" Perform

New York, March 3 (AP)—There'll be 246 college athletes going through their paces at Madison Square Garden in the IC-4A track meet tonight but most of the crowd's interest will be centered upon Gunder Haegg and Haakon Lidman, Scandinavian scooters.

The pair will be on display only 50 hours after they landed in the United States following a 23-day ocean journey from London which was preceded by a six day jaunt from Stockholm.

Haegg will make his board debut in the Louis S. Zamperini invitational mile against four of the best American milers now in training and has said he doesn't expect to defeat Jim Rafferty of New York, unbeaten in five races at the distance this season.

Willie Joyce Wins Over Ike Williams

New York, March 3 (AP)—Willie Joyce upset Ike Williams in their 12-round bout at Madison Square Garden last night and thereby threw next month's scheduled NBA lightweight title bout between Williams and Juan Zurita, of Mexico City, into confusion.

Pete Moran, matchmaker for Herman Taylor, promoter of the title bout in Philadelphia, said the bout would go through as scheduled on April 9. However, Charley Schuster, manager of Joyce, said he would "holer" to Abe Greene, president of the NBA, that Joyce should replace Williams.

"We're not bragging," Schuster asserted. "But we think Joyce is entitled to a title chance."

It may be that Greene will arrange a compromise by ordering the winner of the Williams-Zurita bout to meet Joyce for the title within 30 days.

Nearly 1,000 nationals of the other American republics have received technical training and experience in the United States.

LITTLESTOWN TAKES FINAL

Littlestown high school's boys closed their season Friday evening by defeating the Stewartstown high dibblers on the latter's floor 30-20. The Adams countians grabbed a 14-6 lead at half time and maintained a comfortable margin throughout the second half. Trostle looped 12 points for the winners.

The victory was the 12th in 15 starts for Littlestown and marked its most successful cage campaign in 10 years.

In the preliminary game the Littlestown jayvees nosed out the Stewartstown scrubs 19-15.

President To Submit Treaties

Washington, March 3 (AP)—President Roosevelt as a result of Crimean conference decisions will submit to the Senate six or more treaties relating to the general problems of shaping and preserving the peace.

Three principal treaties will deal with establishing the postwar world security organization. At least three more will concern the liquidation of the European and Pacific wars.

The subject of treaties was prominently projected by Mr. Roosevelt in his report to Congress on the Yalta meeting. The Chief Executive said various treaties will be submitted for ratification but he specifically mentioned only one—that dealing with the world security organization.

At his news conference yesterday the President was asked several questions about what further proposals the Big Three had in mind. He avoided categorical replies.

ORDERED TO WORK

Washington, March 3 (AP)—Members of a CIO union at the Curtiss-Wright plant in Beaver, Pa., have been ordered by the War Labor Board to end their strike. The WLB said yesterday 2,000 workers were forced into idleness after 300 tool and die workers walked off their jobs in a dispute over an incentive bonus.

Sprays To Protect Plums

In recent years it has become almost impossible to grow good crops of plums without protecting the foliage and fruit with sprays. Brown rot takes a heavy toll in most regions. Curculios cause serious damages. To prevent brown rot and to curb the curculio and minor insect enemies every plum tree owner should prepare to apply the full schedule of protective sprays recommended for plums.

If black-knot is present on the trees or if any San Jose scales are found after careful winter inspection, or if brown rot has been severe the previous year, apply a dormant spray of lime-sulphur before buds begin to swell. Dilute the lime-sulphur at the rate of one part concentrate with seven parts water. Of course, if black-knot is troublesome, all knotty portions should be cut out and burned before the dormant spray is applied.

The first regular application of the plum schedule occurs immediately after the bloom petals fall. Use dry-mix lime-sulphur at the rate of 8 pounds to 50 gallons of water or at the rate of dilution recommended on

Lime-Sulphur Spray

The next application should be made when the plums are about the size of small green peas or BB or double-B shot, such as small boys use in air-rifles. Use dry-mix lime-sulphur and arsenate of lead as suggested above.

About one month before each variety of plums is expected to ripen, spray with dry-mix lime-sulphur without the addition of arsenate of lead. This final application is intended to prevent brown rot. If the weather is warm and rainy when plums near maturity, it may be wise and profitable to make a second brown rot prevention application of the same strength fungicide about 15 days before ripening.

It is important for backyard plum growers and other owners of but a few trees to remember that brown rot cannot be cured after the disease becomes visible. The tiny spores which cause the decaying when plums near maturity actually attack the fruits back many weeks earlier. Therefore, to prevent brown rot it is necessary to apply the full schedule of sprays recommended here and thereby destroy the rot fungi before they enter the small green fruits.

More Facts Available
If aphids (plant lice) congregate on the tips of plum twigs before leaves open or later, combat them at once with a special spray of one-half pint of 40 per cent strength nicotine sulphate in 50 gallons of water in which 3 pounds of potassium oleate soap or 3 pounds of rosin fish-oil soap has been dissolved. Coat all the tree liberally with the spray, as direct contact is necessary to cause death.

There should be no doubtful points or question-marks in the plum spray program. Interested readers who have any questions to ask should write the editor at once. To delay obtaining needed information on this vital subject until problems arise will mean at least partial loss of this year's fruit crop.

LEWIS ATTACKS "COST" CLAIMS OF OPERATORS

Washington, March 3 (AP)—John L. Lewis challenged today the claims of bituminous operators that his contract demands would cost the industry $400,000,000 a year.

Lewis indicated he will try to upset the figures advanced yesterday by Charles O'Neill, head of the Central Pennsylvania Soft Coal Producers' group.

The operators are negotiating a new contract with Lewis' United Mine Workers.

O'Neill said the 18 demands presented by Lewis would cost more than 65 cents a ton, and asserted the proposals are "as full of fringes as a Hawaiian dancer's skirt."

"Fringe" demands are those regarded by the War Labor Board as secondary or auxiliary, as contrasted to general wage increases directly challenging the little steel wage formula.

One operator said Lewis' demands are so extensive that "it looks as though Mr. Lewis is throwing the book and laughing at the War Labor Board."

Lewis' Demands
Lewis steered clear of a direct assault on the formula and said this illustrated "the restraint" of the miners.

However, he asked for shift differentials, higher vacation allowances, free safety equipment, elimination of certain job differentials and restoration of a 35-hour work week to permit time and a half for hours worked in excess of that limit. Overtime pay at present starts after 40 hours of the 54-hour week.

The operators estimate this would net the average miner $3.33 a day more.

Chief item, however, was the 10 cent royalty which Lewis asked on each ton produced. Operators estimate this would run to $50,000,000 or $60,000,000 and said it would make Lewis "a labor czar" with unprecedented power and funds at his disposal.

Insulin was discovered in 1922 by Dr. Fred Banting of Toledo.

Imagine the added horror of this war without the Red Cross!

Thousands of War Prisoners would be forgotten. That they have not been abandoned to their fate in this war is the achievement of your Red Cross, which has constantly reached them, even in Japan, with morale-building parcels of food, extra clothes, medicines, cigarettes and other comforts. More and more of your dollars are urgently needed to keep our men in life, health and hope until they can be brought safely home!

Thousands at the Front would be tormented by Home Worries. Millions of fighters bless the Red Cross for relief from anxiety about their loved ones' welfare. Every week thousands of two-way messages are exchanged between Red Cross Field Directors with the troops and Home Service workers in their home towns—emergency questions about wives, children, sweethearts or parents. Your dollars will speed victory by bolstering fighting spirit.

Suppose the Red Cross had never been created

There would now be no Army of Mercy to save and comfort the millions of lives wrecked or dislocated—all over the world—by earth's most destructive war.

No millions of pints of blood would have been collected for life-saving plasma.

No millions of heartening, sustaining food packages would be packed and delivered to despondent Allied war prisoners.

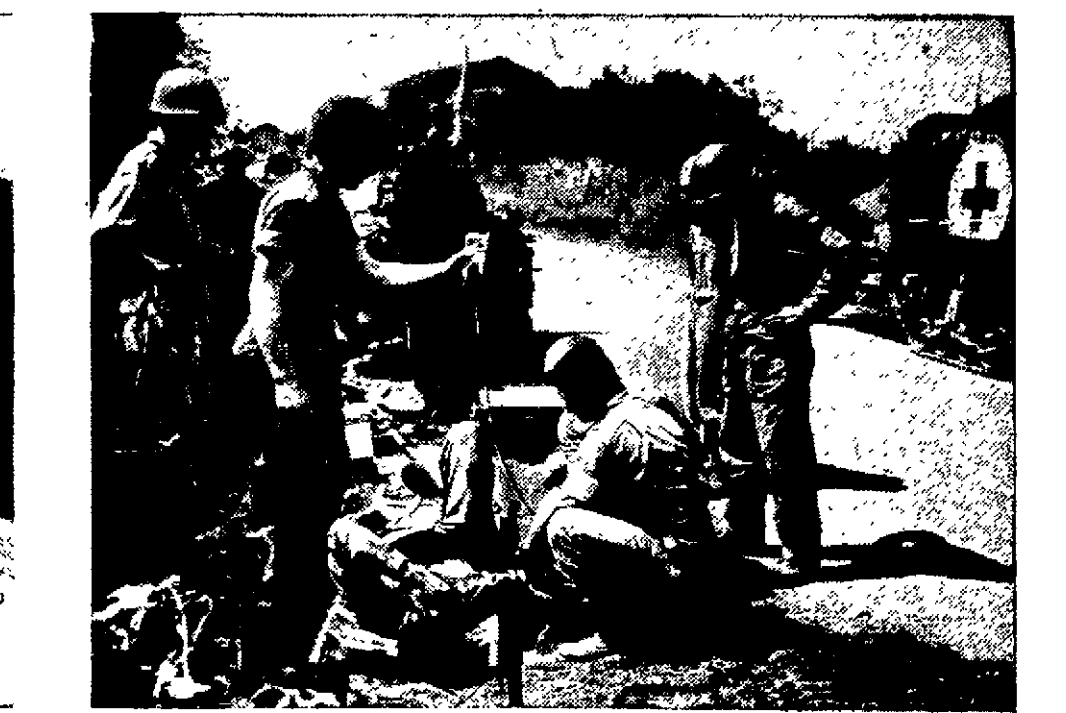

No emergency messages from loved ones would reach our worried fighters at the front.

No giant hand of compassion would be forever outstretched to help the victims of pestilence, flood, famine and hurricane.

Only unthinkable chaos would be left in the wake of battle and catastrophe—if the RED CROSS' hand of helpful mercy were withdrawn!

It is up to you to give—in gratitude that your RED CROSS was created—and grew to keep pace with the world's anguished need.

Give your dollars now—give more than ever before!

Thousands would die from loss of blood where they fell. This is the first war in which the folks at home actually saved lives at the front. Surgeons General of the Army and Navy say blood plasma has been the foremost life-saver in this war. The Red Cross, through your blood donations and money, has collected and distributed millions of pints to the medical services. Your dollars will enlarge this indispensable death-defeating service.

Thank You...

We wish to thank the many people of the community for their most generous patronage during the years we operated our retail Grocery in Gettysburg.

We have disposed of the business to Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Murray, who will take possession next week and we most certainly feel that they will offer you complete Food Service, the same that you have been accustomed to in the past.

Again, we want to say "Thanks, To All Of You."

SHORTS AND SHELLS

When the N. Y. U. basketball team set a garden record of 85 points against Temple the other night, it was the Violets 103rd Garden game. If they'd thought of that, they probably would have made it 103 points for the records: The youngest rookie to make his major league debut last season was the Reds' Joe Nuxhall, born July 30, 1928; the oldest was the Tigers' Chuck Hostetler, Sept. 22, 1905. Ancient Bill Tilden says he'll be back next winter to play an exhibition for Grossinger's canteen-by-mail. Maybe it doesn't mean nothing, but the "thoroughbred record"—the horse-breeders' trade journal—just arrived in a wrapper that looks suspiciously like butchers' paper.

LITTLESTOWN TAKES FINAL

Littlestown high school's boys closed their season Friday evening by defeating the Stewartstown high dribblers on the latter's floor 30-20. The Adams countians grabbed a 14-6 lead at half time and maintained a comfortable margin throughout the second half. Trostle looped 12 points for the winners.

The victory was the 12th in 15 starts for Littlestown and marked its most successful cage campaign in 10 years.

In the preliminary game the Littlestown jayvees ousted the Stewartstown scrubs 19-15.

President To Submit Treaties

Washington, March 3 (AP)—President Roosevelt as a result of Crimean conference decisions will submit to the Senate six or more treaties relating to the general problems of shaping and preserving the peace.

Three principal treaties will deal with establishing the postwar world security organization. At least three more will concern the liquidation of the European and Pacific wars.

The subject of treaties was prominently projected by Mr. Roosevelt in his report to Congress on the Yalta meeting. The Chief Executive said various treaties will be submitted for ratification but he specifically mentioned only one—that dealing with the world security organization.

At his news conference yesterday the President was asked several questions about what further proposals the Big Three had in mind. He avoided categorical replies.

ORDERED TO WORK

Washington, March 3 (AP)—Members of a CIO union at the Curtiss-Wright plant in Beaver, Pa., have been ordered by the War Labor Board to end their strike. The WLB said yesterday 2,000 workers were forced into idleness after 300 tool and die workers walked off their jobs in a dispute over an incentive bonus.

Sprays To Protect Plums

In recent years it has become almost impossible to grow good crops of plums without protecting the foliage and fruit with sprays. Brown rot takes a heavy toll in most regions. Curculio causes serious damages. To prevent brown rot and to curb the curculio and minor insect enemies every plum tree owner should prepare to apply the full schedule of protective sprays recommended for plums.

If black-knot is present on the trees or if any San Jose scales are found after careful winter inspection, or if brown rot has been severe the previous year, apply a dormant spray of lime-sulphur before buds begin to swell. Dilute the lime-sulphur at the rate of one part concentrate with seven parts water. Of course, if black-knot is troublesome, all knotty portions should be cut out and burned before the dormant spray is applied.

The first regular application of the plum schedule occurs immediately after the bloom petals fall. Use dry-mix lime-sulphur at the rate of 8 pounds to 50 gallons of water or at the rate of dilution recommended on the container of the brand purchased. Add 1½ pounds of arsenate of lead to 50 gallons of spray after first mixing it in 3 pounds of hy-drate lime. Coat all parts of the tree uniformly to destroy brown rot fungi and to kill the tiny curculios.

Lime-Sulphur Spray

The next application should be made when the plums are about the size of small green peas or BB or double-B shot, such as small boys use in air-rifles. Use dry-mix lime-sulphur and arsenate of lead as suggested above.

About one month before each variety of plums is expected to ripen, spray with dry-mix lime-sulphur without the addition of arsenate of lead. This final application is intended to prevent brown rot. If the weather is warm and rainy when plums near maturity, it may be wise and profitable to make a second brown rot prevention application of the same strength fungicide about 15 days before ripening.

It is important for backyard plum growers and other owners of but a few trees to remember that brown rot cannot be cured after the disease becomes visible. The tiny spores which cause the decaying when plums near maturity actually attack the fruits back many weeks earlier. Therefore, to prevent brown rot it is necessary to apply the full schedule of sprays recommended here and thereby destroy the rot fungi before they enter the small green fruits.

More Facts Available

If aphids (plant lice) congregate on the tips of plum twigs before leaves open or later, combat them at once with a special spray of one-half pint of 40 per cent strength nicotine sulphate in 50 gallons of water in which 3 pounds of potassium oleate soap or 3 pounds of rosin fish-oil soap has been dissolved. Coat all the lice liberally with the spray, as direct contact is necessary to cause death.

There should be no doubtful points of question-marks in the plum spray program. Interested readers who have any questions to ask should write the editor at once. To delay obtaining needed information on this vital subject until problems arise will mean at least partial loss of this year's fruit crop.

LEWIS ATTACKS "COST" CLAIMS OF OPERATORS

Washington, March 3 (AP)—John L. Lewis challenged today the claims of bituminous operators that his contract demands would cost the industry $400,000,000 a year.

Lewis indicated he will try to upset the figures advanced yesterday by Charles O'Neill, head of the Central Pennsylvania Soft Coal Producers' group.

The operators are negotiating a new contract with Lewis' United Mine Workers.

O'Neill said the 18 demands presented by Lewis would cost more than 65 cents a ton, and asserted the proposals are "as full of fringes as a Hawaiian dancer's skirt."

"Pringe" demands are those regarded by the War Labor Board as secondary or auxiliary, as contrasted to general wage increases directly challenging the little steel wage formula.

One operator said Lewis' demands are so extensive that "it looks as though Mr. Lewis is throwing the book and laughing at the War Labor Board."

Lewis' Demands

Lewis steered clear of a direct assault on the formula and said this illustrated "the restraint" of the miners.

However, he asked for shift differentials, higher vacation allowances, free safety equipment, elimination of certain job differentials and restoration of a 35-hour work week to permit time and a half for hours worked in excess of that limit. Overtime pay at present starts after 40 hours of the 54-hour week.

The operators estimate this would net the average miner $3.33 a day more.

Chief item, however, was the 10 cent royalty which Lewis asked on each ton produced. Operators estimate this would run to $50,000,000 or $60,000,000 and said it would make Lewis "a labor czar" with unprecedented power and funds at his disposal.

Imagine the added horror of this war without the Red Cross!

Thousands of War Prisoners would be forgotten. That they have not been abandoned to their fate in this war is the achievement of your Red Cross, which has constantly reached them, even in Japan, with morale-building parcels of food, extra clothes, medicines, cigarettes and other comforts. More and more of your dollars are urgently needed to keep our men in life, health and hope until they can be brought safely home!

Thousands at the Front would be tormented by Home Worries. Millions of fighters bless the Red Cross for relief from anxiety about their loved ones' welfare. Every week thousands of two-way messages are exchanged between Red Cross Field Directors with the troops and Home Service workers in their home towns—emergency questions about wives, children, sweethearts or parents. Your dollars will speed victory by bolstering fighting spirit.

Suppose the Red Cross had never been created

THERE would now be no Army of Mercy to save and comfort the millions of lives wrecked or dislocated—all over the world—by earth's most destructive war.

No millions of pints of blood would have been collected for life-saving plasma.

No millions of heartening, sustaining food packages would be packed and delivered to despondent Allied war prisoners.

No emergency messages from loved ones would reach our worried fighters at the front.

No giant hand of compassion would be forever outstretched to help the victims of pestilence, flood, famine and hurricane.

Only unthinkable chaos would be left in the wake of battle and catastrophe—if the RED CROSS' hand of helpful mercy were withdrawn!

It is up to you to give—in gratitude that your RED CROSS was created—and grew to keep pace with the world's anguished need.

Give your dollars now—give more than ever before!

Thousands would die from loss of blood where they fell. This is the first war in which the folks at home actually saved lives at the front. Surgeons General of the Army and Navy say blood plasma has been the foremost life-saver in this war. The Red Cross, through your blood donations and money, has collected and distributed millions of pints to the medical services. Your dollars will enlarge this indispensable death-defeating service.

Waiting's The Trick
Everyone who has driven a car is familiar with the sound of a whirling starter gear but surprisingly few have ever advanced far enough to know what to do when a starter acts this way. The whirling will continue if you make the mistake of keeping the starter circuit closed or if you fail to let the whirling gear come to a complete stop before trying it again. It spins around free because its shaft is gummy or dirty. A good cleaning is indicated. But invariably it will slide over into engagement with the flywheel gear if you persist. Not, however, if you don't let the gear come to a complete pause between trials.
When Using Synthetics
To those motorists who operate late model cars with wide base rims I want to caution against overlooking the advice of tire men to use the next size larger tube when remounting the tires with tubes made of synthetic rubber. Such rubber weakens when stretched thin, the larger size automatically preventing this stretching. On some of the larger cars where flaps are also used to protect the tubes from rim cutting it is also well to select a larger size.
Three To Think Over
Some things seldom happen but it is wise policy to be on the look-out for them anyway. In this category is sudden stopping of the engine because of a clogged vent in the cap of the gas tank. Unless air can get into the tank a partial vacuum is created, and this, in turn, eventually stops the flow of fuel to the pump. It's just a pinhole but it is important in the fuel system. Sudden stopping of the engine is usually due to current failure, whereas if the fuel supply is involved the stopping is accompanied by gasping as if the engine were starving for food. Most failures of current are due to loose or broken connections in wiring.
Oils that drain off dirty may be doing you a favor by carrying off sludge. Tests have shown that some oils do not absorb sludge as well as others, the result being that they drain off clean. The sludge is left to deposit on valves and rings.
Mechanic Joe Speaking
"I've told you before how to test the fuel pump by disconnecting the line at the carburetor and seeing if gasoline comes out the end when you crank the engine with ignition off. Now I want to suggest how you can tell if there is clogging in the line from the tank to the pump. "For this you will want to disconnect the line to the pump, at the pump, and remove the cap from the gasoline tank. Next blow into the tank and see if fuel starts to come out the end of the fuel line. If a handkerchief or clean cloth around the filler pipe and place your mouth over the opening when you blow into the tank. Never suck on the end of the fuel line."
Boost As You Shift
A good way to wear clutch and transmission bearings needlessly is to lapse into the habit of letting the car slow down when in process of shifting gears. This allows the engine to act as a brake. Perhaps you have noticed how quickly the car will slow down when you have started off in low and find it necessary to stop again immediately. Perhaps you have also tried to shift out of low during this slow-down only to discover that the job would require quite a bit of effort.
Before shifting always accelerate a little so that there is better balance along the drive line between power and braking. Give the car a boost to compensate for the drag of lost momentum during the shift. In this way the gears and bearings sort of "float on the line." It makes for easier shifting, longer life for the parts involved.
For A Quick Test
If you are ever puzzled to know whether the battery really is on the sick list a rough but practical way is to short across its terminals with a heavy metal tool. This will produce a cracking spark if the battery has life in it. You won't get a shock because the voltage is low, but always use a heavy tool because a light one will heat and you might burn yourself. If you get a good spark you are then justified in suspecting that your electrical trouble is in the battery connection, the battery cable, the ground strap or the ammeter connections.
It Calls For Horning
Horning may seem like a process of telling others where to get off, but actually there are several situations that call for special use of the horn. One is to warn another driver that he is in some dangerous spot which he does not notice. In this event sound your horn in short, quick toots to catch his attention. Then there is horning before going over the crest of a hill. This is good insurance against the possibility of someone trying to overtake another car at the opposite side of the crest and without being aware of your approach. For most dangerous intersections in close quarters there's much to be said for the idea of tooting twice, then listening and tooting again. You'd be surprised how the horns of one car can cancel out those of another.
"Roll" Or "Falter"?
There shouldn't be any doubt in your mind whether the mixture is too rich or too lean when listening to the engine idle. On an overdose of fuel the engine rolls. That's a sort of heaviness with a pronounced beat. At the other extreme an excessively lean mixture is one in which the engine definitely falters. In adjusting, the procedure is to turn the adjusting screw (usually in) until the engine falters and then out until it is running as smoothly as possible. For practical purposes the mixture is more satisfactory when it is a little to the rich side.
Care Of Lock Screw
Your service man may call it the "idling adjusting screw," or the "throttle arm stop screw," but he isn't referring to the carburetor's screw for adjusting the idling mixture. He means the little lock screw which determines just how far the throttle will close. Remember that the throttle never fully closes, but is always open just a trifle—depending on how that lock screw is set. How fast the engine idles, in turn, depends on the setting of this screw, assuming that the throttle return spring is strong enough to put the throttle back to the idle position promptly when you take your foot from the accelerator pedal. Because of wear the lock screw will need occasional resetting, otherwise the engine will tend to run too slowly.
It's A Motor Question
Q. Most of the winter the engine of my car seems to run on four or five cylinders until it warms up. Then everything is smooth again. Plugs have the right gap. Wiring seems to be intact. T. J. H.
A. There may be moisture on the plugs. This comes from condensation. I would wipe off the plug tops before starting. Of course much of the poor cold engine operation is due to low grade gasoline.
Q. When I have been driving about fifteen minutes the hot water heater in my car operates well enough, but a little later it starts to blow cold air. I also seem to lose a lot of water from the cooling (Please Turn to Page 3)

Just Folks
THE VANISHED ONES
Oh, where do golfing parsons go When winter hides the links with snow,
And how, when white the fairway lies,
Do golfing parsons exercise?
These afternoons, from spring to fall,
They were among us first of all;
They were upon the starting tee;
And first of all good company.
But with the dismal time of year When thrush and robin disappear They, too, departed in the gloom Deserting course and locker room.
But with the birds again a-wing And purple hyacinth blossoming, Once more the parsons we shall see, Awaiting us upon the tee.

Today's Talk
MEETING ON EQUAL TERMS
One of the great tragedies of this life is that all too few of us meet those with whom we come in contact on equal terms. Either we present a "superior air" or we fail to take into consideration that we are human to the core and that there is a happy meeting ground for us with every human being.
Probably all discontent is caused by our not being willing to meet all on equal terms. Each of us is endowed with something that the other fellow lacks. And we ourselves are loaded with lacks. The great function of friendliness should be to discover the best in others, and to give credit where credit is due, regardless of race, color or educational advantages.
If nations would only meet one another on equal terms, so far as rights and justice are concerned, there would be no need for destructive wars. There are inherent rights that should always remain inviolable. No one ever loses anything by being magnanimous—neither individuals nor nations.
We learn something from the most ignorant as well as from the most intelligent. Human feeling is universal. Recently at luncheon I met a most interesting man. The talk was delightful. He seemed to carry about him a vast fund of knowledge and information. I asked him what college he had attended. "I never went to college," he answered. I later learned that he was one of the most distinguished lawyers in New York! But we met on common ground. I learned much from him.
Intolerance is the curse of the world. Intelligence is of the mind and the heart. We ought to remember this, and thereby judge honestly, and with justice, as we meet people and make them feel that we meet them on equal terms.
Convictions are about the most laudable things that we can own—but to have them doesn't mean that it is our right to force them upon others. Others have them, too. By coming to a meeting of them on equal terms is to enlarge the horizon of our thoughts and to enrich us as companionable human beings.

THE VANISHED ONES
Oh, where do golfing parsons go
When winter hides the links with snow.
And how, when white the fairway lies,
Do golfing parsons exercise?Those afternoons, from spring to fall,
They were among us first of all:
The first upon the starting tee;
And first of all, good company.But with the dismal time of year
When thrush and robin disappear
They, too, departed in the gloom
Deserting course and locker room.But with the birds again a-wing
And purple hyacinth blossoming,
Once more the parsons we shall see,
Awaiting us upon the tee.

Today's Talk

MEETING ON EQUAL TERMS
One of the great tragedies of this life is that all too few of us meet those with whom we come in contact on equal terms. Either we present a "superior air" or we fail to take into consideration that we are human to the core and that there is a happy meeting ground for us with every human being.Probably all discontent is caused by our not being willing to meet all on equal terms. Each of us is endowed with something that the other fellow lacks. And we ourselves are loaded with lacks. The great function of friendliness should be to discover the best in others, and to give credit where credit is due, regardless of race, color or educational advantages.If nations would only meet one another on equal terms, so far as rights and justice are concerned, there would be no need for destructive wars. There are inherent rights that should always remain inviolable. No one ever loses anything by being magnanimous—neither individuals nor nations.We learn something from the most ignorant as well as from the most intelligent. Human feeling is universal. Recently at luncheon I met a most interesting man. The talk was delightful. He seemed to carry about him a vast fund of knowledge and information. I asked him what college he had attended.
"I never went to college," he answered. I later learned that he was one of the most distinguished lawyers in New York! But we met on common ground. I learned much from him.Intolerance is the curse of the world. Intelligence is of the mind and the heart. We ought to remember this, and thereby judge honestly, and with justice, as we meet people and make them feel that we meet them on equal terms.Convictions are about the most laudable things that we can own—but to have them doesn't mean that it is our right to force them upon others. Others have them, too. By coming to a meeting of them on equal terms is to enlarge the horizon of our thoughts and to enrich us as companionable human beings.

Waiting's The Trick

Everyone who has driven a car is familiar with the sound of a whirring starter gear but surprisingly few have ever advanced far enough to know what to do when a starter acts this way. The whirring will continue if you make the mistake of keeping the starter circuit closed or if you fail to let the whirring gear come to a complete stop before trying it again. It spins around free because its shaft is gummy or dirty.
A good cleaning is indicated. But invariably it will slide over into engagement with the flywheel gear if you persist. Not, however, if you don't let the gear come to a complete pause between trials.

When Using Synthetics

To those motorists who operate late model cars with wide base rims
I want to caution against overlooking the advice of tire men to use the next size larger tube when remounting the tires with tubes made of synthetic rubber. Such rubber weakens when stretched thin, the larger size automatically preventing this stretching. On some of the larger cars where flaps are also used to protect the tubes from rim cutting it is also well to select a larger size.

Three To Think Over

Some things seldom happen but it is wise policy to be on the lookout for them anyway. In this category is sudden stopping of the engine because of a clogged vent in the cap of the gas tank. Unless air can get into the tank a partial vacuum is created, and this, in turn, eventually stops the flow of fuel to the pump. It's just a pinhole but it is important in the fuel system.Sudden stopping of the engine is usually due to current failure, whereas if the fuel supply in involved the stopping is accompanied by gasping as if the engine were starving for food. Most failures of current are due to loose or broken connections in wiring.

Oils that Drain Off Dirty

Oils that drain off dirty may be doing you a favor by carrying off sludge. Tests have shown that some oils do not absorb sludge as well as others, the result being that they drain off clean. The sludge is left to deposit on valves and rings.

Mechanic Joe Speaking

"I've told you before how to test the fuel pump by disconnecting the line at the carburetor and seeing if gasoline comes out the end when you crank the engine with ignition off. Now I want to suggest how you can tell if there is clogging in the line from the tank to the pump."For this you will want to disconnect the line to the pump, at the pump, and remove the cap from the gasoline tank. Next blow into the tank and see if fuel starts to come out the end of the fuel line.
Fit a handkerchief or clean cloth around the filler pipe and place your mouth over the opening when you blow into the tank. Never suck on the end of the fuel line."

Boost As You Shift

A good way to wear clutch and transmission bearings needlessly is to lapse into the habit of letting the car slow down when in process of shifting gears. This allows the engine to act as a brake. Perhaps you have noticed how quickly the car will slow down when you have started off in low and find it necessary to stop again immediately.
Perhaps you have also tried to shift out of low during this slow-down only to discover that the job would require quite a bit of effort.Before shifting always accelerate a little so that there is better balance along the drive line between power and braking. Give the car a boost to compensate for the drag of lost momentum during the shift.
In this way the gears and bearings sort of "float on the line." It makes for easier shifting, longer life for the parts involved.

For A Quick Test

If you are ever puzzled to know whether the battery really is on the sick list a rough but practical way is to short across its terminals with a heavy metal tool. This will produce a cracking spark if the batteryhas life in it. You won't get a shock because the voltage is low, but always use a heavy tool because a light one will heat and you might burn yourself. If you get a good spark you are then justified in suspecting that your electrical trouble is in the battery connection, the battery cable, the ground strap or the ammeter connections.

It Calls For Horning

Horning may seem like a process of telling others where to get off, but actually there are several situations that call for special use of the horn. One is to warn another driver that he is in some dangerous spot which he does not notice. In this event sound your horn in short, quick toots to catch his attention.
Then there is horning before going over the crest of a hill. This is good insurance against the possibility of someone trying to overtake another car at the opposite side of the crest and without being aware of your approach. For most dangerous intersections in close quarters there's much to be said for the idea of tooting twice, then listening and tooting again. You'd be surprised how the horns of one car can cancel out those of another.

"Roll" Or "Falter"?

There shouldn't be any doubt in your mind whether the mixture is too rich or too lean when listening to the engine idle. On an overdose of fuel the engine rolls. That's a sort of heaviness with a pronounced beat. At the other extreme an excessively lean mixture is one in which the engine definitely falters.
In adjusting, the procedure is to turn the adjusting screw (usually in the) until the engine falters and then until it is running as smoothly as possible. For practical purposes the mixture is more satisfactory
when it is a little to the rich side.

Care Of Lock Screw

Your service man may call it the "idling adjusting screw," or the "throttle arm stop screw," but he isn't referring to the carburetor's screw for adjusting the idling mix-ture. He means the little lock screw which determines just how far the throttle will close. Remember that the throttle never fully closes, but is always open just a trifle—depending on how that lock screw is set.
How fast the engine idles, in turn,
depends on the setting of this screw, assuming that the throttle returnspring is strong enough to put the throttle back to the idle position promptly when you take your foot from the accelerator pedal. Because of wear the lock screw will need occasional resetting, otherwise the engine will tend to run too slowly.

Chapter 29
Dawn tinted the eastern sky when O'Shane's pony clattered up to the Turkey ranch house. Viola threw open the door and ran out upon the gallery as he slowly climbed the steps.

"Oh, you're hurt, and you're so pale!" she cried anxiously. "Just winged." His voice was weary and indifferent.

Like a mother shepherding a child, she led him through the house to the kitchen and seated him in a chair.

"I am just dying of curiosity," she exclaimed, busying herself at the stove. "Tell me everything while I make coffee."

"The game's over," he replied laconically, "and I guess we took the last trick."

She asked no more questions until she had set a cup of steaming coffee before him. As he sipped, she watched the weariness fade out of his eyes.

"Now talk," she commanded briskly, "or I'll take a shot at you myself."

The redhead's lips twisted in the faint parody of a grin. "All right, boss!" Briefly, he sketched the events of the night, and I picked this up on Wacker's desk," he concluded, pulling a red-stained, folded sheet from his shirt pocket.

Viola opened it and read aloud: Mr. Silas Wacker, Big River, Arizona.

Dear Sir:

Confirming the offer made in person by our representative, Mr. McPherson, we beg to offer the sum of fifty thousand dollars for sections, three, four and five, township twenty-six, map of Flute Valley. Further, we agree to construct a dam upon a site to be selected for the purpose of impounding water to be used for irrigation in Big River basin and to pay an annual ground rent of one thousand dollars for all water rights in upper part of said Flute Valley.

Mr. McPherson is now proceeding by train with the necessary documents.

Yours very truly,
J. H. Hampden,
President.

Anchor Investment Co.

"Isn't that grand?" she cried, with glowing eyes.

"I guess Joan Curran won't kick," he grinned. "Well, my job's done, reckon the time's come for me to drift."

"And leave me on the lurch!" exclaimed Viola indignantly. "You're in no fit state to travel anyway."

"You can hire a good man," he responded lamely.

"But I want one particular man," she said softly.

"You don't want no saddle bum, with nothing but his hoss and his gun," demurred O'Shane.

"Do you presume to read my thoughts? And, Mr. Michael O'Shane, you're a wealthy man!"

She slid open a drawer and unfolded a crackling parchment.

"Read this!" she directed.

Puzzled, he read. "Why it's a deed to them four sections, made out to —me!" he ejaculated.

"Exactly! Joan insisted upon transferring the dam site to you. She said you saved her life and it was a very small reward. So you're the moneyed man and I'm the destitute orphan."

O'Shane was still staring incredulously at the deed in his hand. "I can't accept this," he objected.

"Joan obtained a good price for the ranch; surely she should be allowed to express her gratitude."

"What do I want with a dam site?" "Remember your dream?" she asked quietly. "Hundreds of little farms, irrigation, a prosperous community, the desert turned into gold. There's your chance to make it come true. And the Turkey, too," she sighed. "It's a lovely ranch but the bank really owns it."

He looked up, his blue eyes bright with anticipation. "I'll clear that loan, first thing I do."

"There's something else, something you can't clear with dollars, Mr. Moneybags," she murmured.

"Yeah!" He gazed at her shining eyes with perplexity.

She moved close, her lips tantalizing. "Yeah!"

She saw by the dawning light in his eyes that he understood, and backed away.

He jumped up. His right hand descended upon her shoulder, drawing her to him. "Say, Vi—Viola, I never thought you—"

"Men are so dense," she murmured, nestling against his chest. "And I had to pick a man who can't even give me a reasonable imitation of a hug!"

"You'll be surprised!" he chuckled, slipping his good arm around her slim waist.

system every day, but there are no signs of leakage. L. P.

A. You will find that the engine overheats and that coolant goes out the overflow pipe. When this happens the coolant level falls so low there is no circulation through the hot water heater.

Q. I have been told that so long as a little pressure is indicated on the oil pressure gauge there is no danger of the engine starving for lubricant. Is this correct? R. C.

A. Yes. Pressure is controlled by the oil pump, the oil, the pressure regulator and the lines (including the motor bearings). If bearings are worn, pressure will drop in spite of efforts to compensate for this by readjustments to the pressure regulator. Actually when pressure is low (assuming the oil screen isn't partially clogged) the engine is being over-oiled, lubricant then being thrown off the bearings too freely.

Q. How can loose motor supports cause gears to jump back to neutral? S. N. McK.

A. The transmission is attached to the engine and clutch so that if the Boston, March 3 (AP)—Two notorious desperadoes who meekly surrendered to FBI agents and police at Concord, N. H., yesterday without firing a shot, were whisked to Boston for preliminary arraignment in Federal court today.

Elaborate precautions were taken to prevent escape of the elusive jailbreakers, wanted by police in many sections of the country for nearly every crime in the book but FBI authorities did not reveal details.

The pair, harried Edgar William Cook, 31, a Boston native, and George William Stubblefield, alias Giles, 37, of Oklahoma, slipped through many a police cordon since their escape last November from the Nebraska penitentiary and subsequent break from the Council Bluffs, Ia., "escape proof" jail.

They were heavily armed when nabbed in the New Hampshire capital.

Chapter 29

Dawn tinted the eastern sky when O'Shane's pony clattered up to the Turkey ranch house. Viola threw open the door and ran out upon the gallery as he slowly climbed the steps.

"Oh, you're hurt, and you're so pale!" she cried anxiously. "Just winged." His voice was weary and indifferent.

Like a mother shepherding a child, she led him through the house to the kitchen and seated him in a chair.

"I am just dying of curiosity," she exclaimed, busying herself at the stove. "Tell me everything while I make coffee."

"The game's over," he replied laconically, "and I guess we took the last trick."

She asked no more questions until she had set a cup of steaming coffee before him. As he sipped, she watched the weariness fade out of his eyes.

"Now talk," she commanded briskly, "or I'll take a shot at you myself."

The redhead's lips twisted in the faint parody of a grin. "All right, boss!" Briefly, he sketched the events of the night, "and I picked this up on Wacker's desk," he concluded, pulling a red-stained, folded sheet from his shirt pocket.

Viola opened it and read aloud: "The Staff," by Pvt. Nevin R. Hagen, Reading; "The Unfinished Symphony," by Pvt. Ralph G. Davis, DeYoung; and a summary of the ASTU by Pvt. Joseph F. DeNardi, Baltimore; Robert E. Kiscoddon, Lebanon, and William H. Standford, Havre de Grace, Md.

Confirming the offer made in person by our representative, Mr. McPherson, we beg to offer the sum of fifty thousand dollars for sections, three, four and five, township twenty-six, map of Piute Valley. Further, we agree to construct a dam upon a site to be selected for the purpose of impounding water to be used for irrigation in Big River basin and to pay an annual ground rent of one thousand dollars for all water rights in upper part of said Piute Valley.

Mr. McPherson is now proceeding by train with the necessary documents.

Yours very truly,
J. H. Hampden,
President.
Anchor Investment Co.

"Isn't that grand?" she cried, with glowing eyes.

"I guess Joan Curran won't kick," he grunted. "Well, my job's done, reckon the time's come for me to drift."

"And leave me on the lurch!" exclaimed Viola indignantly. "You're in no fit state to travel anyway."

"You can hire a good man," he responded lamely.

"But I want one particular man," she said softly.

"You don't want no saddle bum, with nothing but his hoss and his gun," demurred O'Shane.

"Do you presume to read my thoughts?" And, Mr. Michael O'Shane, you're a wealthy man!"

She slid open a drawer and unfolded a crackling parchment.

"Read this!" she directed.

Puzzled, he read. "Why it's a deed to them four sections, made out to —me!" he ejaculated.

"Exactly! Joan insisted upon transferring the dam site to you. She said you saved her life and it was a very small reward. So you're the moneyed man and I'm the destitute orphan."

O'Shane was still staring incredulously at the deed in his hand. "I can't accept this," he objected.

"Joan obtained a good price for the ranch; surely she should be allowed to express her gratitude."

"What do I want with a dam site?" "Remember your dream?" she asked quietly. "Hundreds of little farms, irrigation, a prosperous community, the desert turned into gold. There's your chance to make it come true. And the Turkey, too," she sighed. "It's a lovely ranch but the bank really owns it."

He looked up, his blue eyes bright with anticipation. "I'll clear that loan, first thing I do."

"There's something else, something you can't clear with dollars, Mr. Moneybags," she murmured.

"Yeah!" He gazed at her shining eyes with perplexity.

She moved close, her lips tantalizing. "Yeah!"

She saw by the dawning light in his eyes that he understood, and backed away.

He jumped up. His right hand descended upon her shoulder, drawing her to him. "Say, Vi—Viola, I never thought you—"

"Men are so dense," she murmured, nestling against his chest. "And I had to pick a man who can't even give me a reasonable imitation of a hug!"

"You'll be surprised!" he chuckled, slipping his good arm around her slim waist.

THE END

Nab Desperadoes
In Concord, N. H.

Boston, March 3 (AP)—Two notorious desperadoes who meekly surrendered to FBI agents and police at Concord, N. H., yesterday without firing a shot, were whisked to Boston for preliminary arraignment in Federal court today.

Elaborate precautions were taken to prevent escape of the elusive jailbreakers, wanted by police in many sections of the country for nearly every crime in the book but FBI authorities did not reveal details.

The pair, harrumphed Edgar William Cook, 31, a Boston native, and George William Stubbfield, alias Giles, 37, of Oklahoma, slipped through many a police cordon since their escape last November from the Nebraska penitentiary and subsequent break from the Council Bluffs, Ia., "escape proof" jail.

They were heavily armed when nabbed in the New Hampshire capital.

By 1840, practically all the Indians east of the Mississippi were placed on reservations.

A. You will find that the engine overheats and that coolant goes out the overflow pipe. When this happens the coolant level falls so low there is no circulation through the hot water heater.

Q. I have been told that so long as a little pressure is indicated on the oil pressure gauge there is no danger of the engine starving for lubricant. Is this correct? R. C.

A. Yes. Pressure is controlled by the oil pump, the oil, the pressure regulator and the lines (including the motor bearings). If bearings are worn, pressure will drop in spite of efforts to compensate for this by readjustments to the pressure regulator. Actually when pressure is low (assuming the oil screen isn't partially clogged) the engine is being over-oiled, lubricant then being thrown off the bearings too freely.

Q. How can loose motor supports cause gears to jump back to neutral? S. N. McK.

A. The transmission is attached to the engine and clutch so that if the Washington, March 3 (AP)—The Defense Plant Corporation has authorized the McCreary Tire and Rubber company, Indiana, Pa., to spend $100,000 for new machinery and equipment. The project is the 25th announced in the truck tire expansion program. No new construction is involved.

STRAND THEATRE

Saturday

"CYCLONE PRAIRIE RANGER"

Charles Starrett Constance Worth

MONDAY AND TUESDAY

What is by far the screen's greatest fashion show to date, is the lavish panorama of style in Darryl

F. Zanuck's "Wilson," the 20th Century-Fox technicolor film version of the life and times of our World

War I President, opening Monday

at the Majestic Theatre.

In "Wilson," 20th Century-Fox

presents the tremendous story of the success and the tragic failure of an American who dared to have faith in a great ideal. It is rich with the warmth and emotion that any real story of a human being must have,

and it has an intimacy that only panickstaring research and faithful direction could attain. It is a story of history-in-the-making. It is a true story.

WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY

John Wayne and Ella Raines are brought together for the first time in RKO Radio's exciting new outdoor drama, "Tall in the Saddle,"

in which they are co-starred.

Wayne plays a ranch foreman with an aversion to women, and Miss Raines has the role of a quick-tempered, high-spirited western heir who figures she can hold her own with any man. She and Wayne are at each other's throats

all through the picture, but she succeeds in getting her man by her own original methods.

In the supporting cast are Audrey

Long, George "Gabby" Hayes, Elisa-

beth Risdon, Ward Bond, Don

Douglas and Russell Wade.
